Water Balloon/Dodge Ball Rules

Each team will consist of 5 participants.

This is a double elimination tournament.

The games are limited to 2 minutes.

Single game instead of best-out-of-three.

Each game will start with all players from each team standing back to back at the median line. At the whistle/mark, all players will run to the rear of their side where their balloons will be kept.

Each team will get a total of 25 balloons per match.

Each player will only be allowed to hold one balloon at a time.

The only time a player is allowed to have more than one balloon at a time is if he / she catches an opponent's balloon(s).

If both teams run out of balloons before the end of regulation, the team with the most players remaining will win.

The participant will be taken out of play if:

- Participant is directly hit by a balloon.
- Balloon has to bust upon direct contact to be considered a legal hit.
- Head shots are illegal and the person hit stays in the game.
- Participant steps out of the boundaries or over the median line.
- The opposition catches the throwers balloon.

When the opposing team catches the balloon, one of their players will return to the game.

You are not out if the balloon busts during the throwing motion.

In the event of a tie, sudden death rules will go into effect.

One contestant from each team will get one balloon / one toss to try and eliminate the other player. However, there's a catch. Each representative from each team will be limited to a 3 foot square in which they are to toss from and dodge within. Both squares will be positioned 8 feet from the median line, making them 16 feet apart.

If both contestants fail to hit each other, the same process will be repeated using every player of both teams until someone is hit.
